HARRISON'S HEALTH.

The Republican Candidate Resumes His Occupation.

His Physician Has Not Reported him a Sick Man.

The House Completes Consideration of the Tariff Bill.

Mills will Move its Passage on Monday Next.

Harrison's Health.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 17.—General Harrison rose early this morning, feeling in excellent spirits and health. There has been no recurrence of neuralgic pains. After spending a couple of hours with his secretaries, the general ordered his carriage and drove down to his law office where he spent an hour. This is the first time he has ventured out since last Wednesday. His family and physicians have about ceased to consider him as a sick man.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 17.—General Harrison passed a quiet and uneventful day. He regards himself entirely recovered from his illness, but to avoid the public in a more satisfactory manner [illegible] ative of the Associated press called this evening upon Dr. Jameson, the general's physician, who said there had been at no time any occasion to regard General Harrison as a sick man. He had an attack of nervous indigestion but of a severe character.

Fifteenth Congress.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Today [illegible] was not well enough to speak on the fisheries question.

Allison reported back the sundry civil appropriating bill.

The [illegible] of the bill to place John C. Fremont on the retired list as major general of the army.

Beasom and Cockrell [illegible] the bill.

Wilson of Iowa asked Cockrell whether he had not voted to put Fitz John Porter on the retired list.

Cockrell admitted having done so, but if he had done wrong once that was not justify him in doing wrong twice. Fitz John Porter had nothing to do with the case. If a military commission examined Fremont's record and reported that a great wrong had been perpetrated on him, and if the general of the army endorsed that report he Cockrell would vote to restore him his rank.

Wilson [illegible] been dismissed from the army.

Cockrell corrected that statement and said the record showed John C. Fremont had been court martialed and dismissed from the army.

After some further discussion the bill was passed, yeas 28, nays 2.

On motion of Blanchard the senate recedes from its amendment to the postoffice bill known as the subsidy amendment.

The senate then resumed consideration of the bill providing for the adjustment of accounts of laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by the government under the eight hour law.

Stewart supported the bill and offered an amendment to prohibit any officer of the government making any contract or arrangement whereby any workman, laborer or mechanic shall work more than eight hours a day except in special emergencies. Rejected, yeas 15, nays [illegible].

Mr. Dawes moved to amend the bill by inserting the words, "Whether engaged at a price per day or on piece work or task work." Agreed to.

Dawes also moved to insert the following words: "Any agreement or alleged agreement to receive a less amount or to work a longer time required as a condition of being employed, to the contrary notwithstanding." Rejected, yeas [illegible], nays 23.

The bill then passed, yeas 27, nays [illegible].

The first section provides that whoever as laborer, workman or mechanic has been employed by or on behalf of the government of the United States since the 25th day of June, 1868, [illegible] constituting eight hours a day's work, whether engaged at a price per day or piece work or task work, shall be paid for each eight hours he has been employed as for a full day's work, without any reduction on account of reduction of hours of labor.

The second section provides that all claims for labor so performed in excess of eight hours per day, are hereby referred to the court of claims to be adjudged upon the basis that eight hours constitute a day's work, and are to be paid for at the price per day as provided in the first section of this act, and judgment given against the United States in favor of each claimant for the amount found due, to be paid as other judgments of the court of claims against the United States, and no statute of limitation or payment made on receipt given for a less sum per day than the full price of a day's work as provided in the first section of this act shall be a defense to such recovery, provided that all suits under this act shall be commenced within two years from and after its passage, and any number of said claimants may join in the same suit; and provided further that any amount allowed under this act shall only be paid to such claimant [illegible] in U. S. [illegible] general appropriations.

The bill for the [illegible] of Washington was taken up and will be unfinished business.

The senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

The house today took up the internal revenue feature of the tariff bill. Consideration of the subject was had in committee of the whole, and began at the earliest moment possible.

On behalf of the ways and means committee, McMillin, of Tennessee, offered an amendment providing that the bond required to be given by cigar manufacturers shall be in such penal sum as the collectors of internal revenue may require, but less than $100 with the addition of $10 for every person proposed to be employed by such manufacturer. Adopted.

There were two pending amendments coming from yesterday; one offered by Wise, of Virginia, repealing the tax on cigars, cheroots and cigarettes, and one by Sowden, of Pennsylvania, abolishing the tax on spirits distilled from apples, peaches and other fruits.

Mr. Wise's amendment was defeated, 12 to 58, and Sowden's was withdrawn.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,

BENJAMIN HARRISON,

Of Indiana.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

LEVI P. MORTON,

Of New York.

Subscriptions to the fund for the Bellevue Sanitarium should be generous and liberal. The enterprise is one which should enlist the sympathy of every citizen.

The Rev. Dr. Storrs has "taken to the woods" because of the republican platform. He says he will think about the republican candidate, he will concentrate again and vote the republican ticket this fall. No republican can afford to lose his vote this fall because the platform is not right. The record of the leaders and the party is all right whatever the platform says, and this should be enough. Harrison deserves and should have every republican vote.

Evidently some of the anarchists in Chicago have not appreciated the lessons taught them by the execution of Spies and his confederates. The discovery of a plot against the lives of Judge Gary, ex-District Attorney Grinnell, and Inspector Bonfield, which led to the arrest of three men yesterday morning, is a striking evidence of the presence of a dangerous element in our national life. The law apparently has no terrors for the anarchists, but they should be made to suffer its penalties. There has been a certain maudlin sentimentality exhibited regarding the treatment of the anarchists which has been entirely unwarranted. By their conduct they have forfeited all claims for sympathy, and should be made to feel the stern arm of the law.

The Mills bill from present appearances will pass the house by a narrow majority unless the republicans resort to filibustering tactics. It is not likely that they will prevent a vote on the bill but will allow it to go to the senate, where it is claimed that it will be defeated. The democratic opposition to the measure in the house which at one time was estimated at forty, has dwindled down to four, including Mr. Randall. The free wool clause, which was particularly obnoxious to the protection democrats, was passed with but little trouble. Only three democrats voted against it. Mr. McAdoo, of New Jersey, one of Mr. Randall's most staunch supporters, voted for the schedule. The party in the house has now placed itself in harmony with the president's message, though several months have been consumed in whipping the recalcitrant members into line.

Some republicans are a good deal bothered about the platform. It is unnecessary. The convention intended to declare for protection and that is all. The "free whiskey" plank only represents the views of a small number of republicans. Several republican congressional conventions have already put themselves on the platform of 1884. When Blaine comes he will silence some of the small politicians and give us the true republican doctrine. He declared against free whiskey last December in his famous Paris interview. In his famous letter of November 29th, 1884, he said:

"But the more I have reflected upon it the more evident it has become to my mind that it is wiser to tax whiskey than to tax farms and homesteads and shops, and that it would be an incalculable folly to remit the $56,000,000 instead of giving it to the states for the relief of oppressive local taxation."

The above represents the average sentiments of the party and is consistent with the record of any prominent republican leader except Kelley, McKinley and a few others.

Mills has carried the clause removing the duty on wool. But it is an expensive victory. It arrays every wool producer against the democratic party. The democrats would appear to better advantage if more sincere. They claim to be in favor of removing the taxes from the necessities of life, but leave the tax on rice and sugar. The latter is the most indefensible because we do not produce but 5 per cent of what we consume, and the tax becomes one for revenue rather than protection. Of course the reason rice and sugar were protected and wool made free by the Mills bill is because the former are southern products and the latter northern. What the wool growers will do about it is shown by the following resolution adopted by the Montana wool growers last Friday:

WHEREAS, The platform of the democratic party indorsed the message of the president declaring in favor of free wool, and

WHEREAS, The platform of the republican party expressly says "We insist that the duties on wool shall be adjusted and maintained so as to furnish full and adequate protection to the industry, and

WHEREAS, Three-fourths of the expense of raising sheep is paid out in wages; and

WHEREAS, The only way that they can be run in this country is under a very much reduced scale of wages, paid to a class of men who [illegible] in the proper discharge of their duty; and

WHEREAS, The system of diversified American industry that has been built up under our protective tariff has proved to the nation at large the greatest of blessings, at a life-long cost; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we believe that the republican party, in its endeavor to reduce the surplus by the abolition of internal taxes, while it advocates the retention and readjusting of such taxes as will properly protect American labor and enterprise, deserves the hearty support of all people who have the dignity of American labor at heart.

Foreign Questions in National Politics.

To the Editor of the GAZETTE:

SIR—Will you allow me, as a Britisher by birth, though naturalized American and a strong supporter of home rule for Ireland, to express my sympathy with the views set forth in your editorial of to-day regarding the interference of American party conventions with the domestic politics of foreign countries?

You justly observed in a former article that resolutions of sympathy with the south passed by British political parties during the rebellion would have been regarded as impertinent by the north. As a matter of fact this is just the light in which the resolutions of sympathy with Canadian Revolutionists by the house of representatives, by the post conventions, and even that passed by the Canadian parliament, have been regarded by the anti-Irish party in Britain. I venture to say that they have done the Irish cause infinitely more harm than good. They have given color to the assertion sometimes made by the tories that America is desirous for selfish purposes of the destruction of the British empire, and is conspiring with the Irish to effect this aim. To thinkers the absurdity of this statement is manifest, but the trouble is that in England as in America, the majority of voters don't think any more than they can help. An assertion like the foregoing, backed by the apparent proofs afforded by the action of official and semi-official bodies, in which native Americans are in the majority, goes a long way towards persuading them that Irish and Americans are alike parties in a vast conspiracy against the life of the great empire of which every Briton is proud to be a citizen.

I believe that every foreigner who settles in this country with a reasonable prospect of spending the rest of his life in it, ought as a matter of duty to become a citizen of the United States. He ought, again as a matter of duty, while retaining a strong love for the country of his birth, to place the interests of his adopted country first and above all others. Holding these views, the intrusion of foreign political questions and parties into American municipal, state and national politics seems to me to be highly dangerous to the welfare of America. One or other of the parties is unscrupulously catering to the Irish or German vote in the northwest possibly the Scandinavian vote, and everyone knows that the results are bad. Of late a new "vote" has been introduced—the "British American." The ostensible object of the British American association is good enough to induce Englishmen, Scotchmen, Canadians, etc., to become citizens of the United States. But its main and real objects, as is clearly shown by its publications and by the speeches delivered at its meetings, are to fight the Irish and the Roman Catholics. The Irish were to be opposed because they have a "pernicious influence in American politics," because it is from their ranks that the "bosses" and "boys" and "heelers" are drawn, nothing could be said against so laudable an object. If the Roman church were to be opposed because it is trying to gain control of the public schools of the country, to impose upon them denominational text books, to make them sectarian instead of unsectarian [illegible] except in praise. But the British American association fights the Irish because they want home rule for Ireland, it fights the Catholics not only because of their influence over the schools, but still more because they are Catholics. To judge by its publications it would disfranchise all Catholics, simply because they believe as they do. This spirit is entirely contrary to that of the constitution and of the bulk of the nation, who hold, and rightly, that politics should be independent of religion.

This "British-American" party, as small as yet, but as specially in the cities, it may soon become a force to be reckoned with, and its opportunities for stirring up ill will are immense. Unless politicians can come to an agreement to let foreign politics and "votes" alone, and work simply for the good of America, it seems to me there is danger ahead. America will come out all right in the long run; she always does. But it may be a long and hard fight.

Respectfully Yours,
July 11th, 1888. JOHN GARDINER.

Stone Crossing.

It is stated in the GAZETTE report of the doings of the city council on Monday evening that "The matter of having stone crossings at the various street corners was on motion referred to the committee on streets and ditches to investigate."

It has been suggested to some of the city council, as well as to a good number of citizens, that stone boxes of flag-stone be substituted for the present plank boxes at the ditch crossings of the street corners, and also even for the ditch crossings of the streets. Plank boxes decay, become broken, and even dangerous to people walking the streets. Many instances could be stated of this condition of plank boxes of the ditches. Stone boxes, if constructed of length equal to the width of the sidewalks and the streets, would be permanent, never wearing out, and always safe. Should the ditch get clogged by sediment it will only be necessary to turn the top stone over, remove the sediment, and replace the stone. Flag-stone, three inches thick, can be had at a cost not exceeding fifteen cents per square foot. Plank, two inches thick, costs at $20 per thousand feet, four cents per square foot. Plank boxes decay, become broken, requiring frequent repair; stone boxes will last always, it may be said. It is not urged that the substitution be made at once throughout the city, but only as repairs are needed. It is to be hoped that the committee on streets and ditches will make the experiment of the substitution at some of the street corners and the street crossings, and should it prove successful, and the work be carried on, it is obvious that the economy of it would be very great in a few years. STATE NEWS.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of involuntary manslaughter.

The republican convention of the ninth judicial district will be held at Aspen September 3.

The reduction in the rates of miners' wages at Aspen has gone into effect without any trouble.

The total valuation of property in Delta county as shown by the tax assessment roll is $725,[illegible].

A special election will be held at Leadville for mayor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the present incumbent.

The Patient at Nonquitt.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 17.—A local paper speaking of General Sheridan says: "Symptoms of the liver has set in. The family and physicians refuse to talk on the subject."

[illegible] further change in the condition in the patient.

[illegible] at Scranton, Pa., burned yesterday. Loss $100,000; partly insured. The mines are now on fire.

The Union Prayer Meeting.

By request of the W. C. T. U. several of the pastors of the city have granted the favor of a union prayer meeting to be held in the Congregational church this evening for the cause of temperance. As it was impossible to interview all of the pastors of the city, will those not interviewed please do the best they can to meet in union?

It is over a year since a like meeting was held under the auspices of the Good Templars in the Presbyterian church and the suggestion was made that such meeting should be held once a quarter. The W. C. T. U. has had the matter under consideration and the date has been selected several times but various hindrances have prevented the execution of the plan. It is hoped that the quarterly meetings under the auspices of the different temperance organizations of the city may be definitely arranged for.

One of the reasons why the union needs this prayer meeting at this time is that the faithful few who have been the workers to be depended on for so long, must have a reserve corps to fall back on, for a time at least. The department that needs special workers now is the evangelistic one.

[illegible] the city there has been no regular gospel service held at the county house, and the request has come for services to be held there again.

Also the superintendent of jail work must needs resign because of duties elsewhere. Having had charge of the last for a year and a half, I can speak definitely concerning it; that though it requires a sacrifice of time on Sunday and is somewhat of a tax on one's sympathy and cheer, yet it is not without its reward.

Sometimes those who seem the hardest [illegible] are the most ready to acknowledge that they have been helped by the services afterward.

Mrs. M. B. Myers will continue in charge of the music and Rev. R. C. Bristol as speaker, but a Bible reader is needed.

Mrs. Bracomb, who has so faithfully conducted the column in the Republic [illegible] in old mother, needs a rest, [illegible] Besides, there is another opening for press work that needs a worker at once. There are the jails, [illegible] work in which leaders are needed immediately, and private soldiers are the real body of every army. All cannot be leaders, neither can anyone be leader unless there be those to be led. Because a superintendent is appointed don't let that be all the work. Make her feel that there are ready helpers to stand by her whenever she needs them. If they cannot do anything more than to be messengers, it lightens the burden of [illegible] There is one needed, whom I have seldom known to be absent, and who may have thought she did not do much, but it was always a comfort to her to feel her verse of scripture, for "she did it right into our hearts."

Come, sisters, come to the prayer meeting this evening and hear what Mrs. Thompson, our state president, has to say about the work of the Women's Christian Temperance union. She will give a ten minutes talk on the work of the society, at the prayer meeting, and we hope the hearts of more of the Christian women may be turned towards these avenues of work.

Objectionable Immigration.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The select house committee on importation of contract and pauper labor will first visit New York and Boston, and later in the season will probably proceed to San Francisco to enquire into the Chinese labor question. Morrow of California, member of the committee, says the operations of the committee will not in any way be allowed to affect prompt action of congress upon the pending bill to give effect to the new Chinese treaty, but will be mainly devoted to the ascertainment of facts attending the importation of Chinese laborers across the British Columbia frontier. This will probably necessitate a visit by the committee to Port Townsend, and if the allegations are borne out to the satisfaction of the committee it is the opinion that a recommendation will be made that negotiations be commenced with the government of Great Britain looking to the imposition of proper restrictions on this kind of immigration.

The Teachers' Convention.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The teachers' convention convened this evening with a grand welcoming concert at Mechanics pavilion. Delegations have arrived in large numbers all day, as well as thousands of visitors from coast points. Addresses of introduction and welcome were delivered by Hon. G. Hoyt, superintendent of schools, and Mr. [illegible] Mayor Pond then welcomed the visitors on behalf of the city. Responses were made by President Aaron Gove of Denver, Secretary Jas. H. Crawford of Lawrence, Kas., and Vice-President W. F. Sheldon of Boston.

Moore Re-Arrested.

TOPEKA, Kas., July 17.—Judge Guthrie released Moore this morning but he was immediately re-arrested by a constable for adultery, placed under $500 bond and his case set for next Monday.

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—Dispatches received late to-night from Topeka say the whereabouts of Moore has not been discovered. Mrs. Norton has also left the hotel and can't be found. The general impression is that they are together somewhere in the vicinity, and their lawyers [illegible] meet the charge of adultery on Monday morning.

OUR MORMON SISTERS.

DELEGATE CAINE TALKS ABOUT MORMON WOMEN.

Celestial and Plural Marriages—What Mormon Women Think of Polygamy—Mormons as Citizens—Wilford Woodruff, Lorenzo Snow at the Head of the Church.

WASHINGTON, January 27. Mr. Caine, the Mormon delegate from Utah, is a magnetic talker. He was in the city of Salt Lake yesterday and Mr. Caine is a handsome dark-eyed man of about 35 or 40 years of age. He came here at the request of his wife, who thinks the country and society of the American capital, though she does not care much for the society of the American capital, she is a woman of culture and refinement. Short and latest of 11 years. Sightings and an enthusiastic Mormon. I chatted with Mr. Caine last night about Mormon women. He said:

"The Mormon women are, in the true sense of the word, ladies. They have an exalted idea of the sacredness of motherhood. This is a result of the Mormon belief that marriage is for eternity, as well as for time. The solemnities which attend a Mormon marriage, the teachings of the church, the admonitions of mothers, all tend to develop the true biblical idea of the marriage state. The true Mormon woman [illegible] nity, and is inspired with an earnest purpose to fulfill her destiny in this life, and is sustained and cheered by the unwavering belief that in the life to come her reward will correspond to the part she has sustained in the preparatory state of probation.

JOHN T. CAINE.

"The condition of Mormon women," continued Mr. Caine, "has been strongly misrepresented. The [illegible] of the Mormon church [illegible] women, which is, so largely directed, has contributed in a marked degree to the growth and spread of the gospel as revealed to the Latter Day Saints. The constancy, the heroism, the self sacrificing, self abnegating characteristics of the good and noble woman have [illegible] and among us people, even more conspicuously displayed. Regard for a moment what they have had to endure. It has not been mere privations incident to expulsions from one settlement to another, culminating in the terrible pilgrimage from the banks of the Mississippi to Salt Lake valley, and the [illegible] full experience of the first years in that desert region. Above and beyond all mere physical discomforts and sufferings [illegible] proaches, the scorn, the contumely, the pointing of contempt of scorn.

"And during all the years from the days of the Saints' sojourning at Kirtland, O., how many instances have there been of women forsaking their church, disowning their belief in the gospel revealed by Joseph Smith, and complaining of their lot, of seeking to escape the slavery they have been represented to be living in?

"But," said I, "were they not and are not the Mormon women of to-day intelligent. Does the average American [illegible]

"I think not," replied Mr. Caine. "Our women, ever since the days when Joseph Smith began to preach the new and wonderful things which led to his expulsion from Illinois, have been reared in Mormon families in New England, New York, Pennsylvania and the Western States. [illegible] as intelligent, just as refined, just as educated as the average wives, sisters and daughters of the farmers of western New York, eastern and western Pennsylvania, of Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire and of northeastern Ohio.

"It is said that a majority of the Mormons are foreigners."

"That is altogether false; there is a smaller percentage of aliens among them than is to be found in the population of many states and territories. We have as good a school system as any territory can boast. There are fewer Mormons who cannot read and write than among the people of many northern states. The percentage of illiteracy in Utah is precisely that of the state of Connecticut."

"How about women's rights in Utah?"

"The Mormons were among the first," replied Mr. Caine, "to dignify womankind with the right of suffrage. Under the laws of the territory married women can hold real as well as personal property in their own right, sell and convey the same, and engage in any kind of business independent of their husbands. There is not a settlement in Utah which has not a young ladies' mutual improvement society. Some of the ablest exponents of the rights of women are Mormon wives and mothers. The Woman's Exponent, edited and published by Mormon women, is a bright and able woman's journal."

"How do the Mormon women regard the anti-polygamy movement?"

"The majority of our women, like the great majority of Mormons, have never been in polygamy. They believe, as all Mormons do, that the revelation to Joseph Smith concerning celestial marriage came direct from God, and that in certain cases, and under certain circumstances, plurality of wives was permissive. The nature of woman is the same the world over. Only religious conviction of an overwhelming character can constrain any good woman to have her husband's affections shared by another. But that conviction of religious duty and self sacrifice will enable a woman to curb her feelings and endure unselfishly, and even with cheerfulness, so great a trial, there can be no doubt. Some of the best, the purest, the noblest women that ever lived have been Mormon plural wives."

"Is celestial marriage and plural marriage one and the same thing?" I asked.

"Certainly not. Celestial marriage is simply our marriage ceremony, and those who are married according to it are bound to each other for all eternity, and not for this life only. Of course, plural marriages have always celebrated according to the celestial rite. But celestial marriages are not necessarily plural marriages. There are marriages among Mormons, for time and not for eternity, but all good Mormons should be married for eternity as well as for time."

"Mr. Caine," said I, "is the government [illegible]

the Mormons pitched their tents where the city of Salt Lake now stands. You know the history of their expulsion from Nauvoo, and the story of their pioneer band crossing the Mississippi river on the ice, and of the main body following in detachments. Within two years more than 10,000 people made a journey of nearly 2,000 miles from Illinois, Iowa and Missouri to the valley of the Great Salt Lake. They had to sustain themselves en route, to grow their corn and wheat, to grind their meal and flour, to provide their meat, to shear their flocks, spin the yarn and weave the cloth for raiment. They had to deal with savage Indians, and, while doing all this, they contributed 500 of the flower of their manhood to help fight the battles of their country against the Mexicans. There is not in all the annals of the human race another such example of a great body of people so peaceably and successfully performing such an undertaking. Their religion alone enabled them to do it.

"The [illegible] of their communities in the desert region of Great Salt Lake, and the redemption of those sterile wastes, would not have been possible but for the Mormon religion. From 10,000, who gathered in Utah from the banks of the [illegible] Mormon people in the mountain region have grown to over 200,000 souls. They have colonized sterile and inhospitable regions. Ninety per [illegible] "There is not a single [illegible] The people are remarkably free from [illegible] Mormon community. [illegible] Gulch, Colorado, Mrs. W. D. W. Hooper, New York, J. W. K. About thirteen miles of the Pike's Peak toll road have been completed, and the road will be open to the summit by August 1st. The owners of the thoroughfare have received permission to build it over the United States military reservation.

Prof. J. C. Pelshaus, an elocutionist from Springfield, Ill., arrived in the city yesterday and will remain for a number of weeks. He is thinking of organizing a class in elocution for a course of four or five weeks, if a sufficient number of pupils can be secured.

Next Friday morning Colfax Canton No. 2, of this city, will run an excursion from Manitou and Colorado Springs to the Grand Cañon of the Arkansas. Visitors and tourists are specially invited to join the excursion. Tickets from Manitou are $3.25 and from Colorado Springs $3.00.

At a meeting of the gentlemen interested in the proposed pipe line from West Monument creek to Austin's bluffs held on Monday afternoon, it was decided to advertise at once for bids to construct the line. The specifications are now being prepared by County Surveyor H. I. Reid.

We are glad to announce that Mr. J. H. Bowman has succeeded in raising a fund to defray the expenses of open air concerts in the city parks. These concerts will be furnished by the Firemen's band and will be highly entertaining. The first concert will be given in the North park this evening.

The Ladies Aid society will run an excursion over the Midland, through Eleven Mile canon to Spinney, on the 26th inst. Parties joining in the excursion can stop in the canon if they desire and need not go to Spinney. Fare for the round trip $2.00. The proceeds will be applied to the building fund of the church.

This afternoon will be the first regular club day of the Colorado Springs Tennis club. The new grounds of the club on the northwest corner of Cascade avenue and Cache la Poudre street will be opened. Refreshments will be served and members of the club and their friends are invited from 4 until 7 p. m.

Yesterday afternoon Officer Atkinson arrested W. E. Hall and Edward Weston (both colored) at Manitou. They are the men who were found gambling one night last week but who escaped from the officers by jumping from their room in the second story of the building. Hall was arrested at the Iron Springs hotel and Weston was found at the Cliff. Both paid fines and costs to the police magistrate amounting to $15.60.

Superintendent of the Water Works Frost has a force of men at work laying a new main in the north part of the city. The main leaves the alley on Cache la Poudre street, between Nevada and Weber, and extends as far east as Bijou street. A branch is taken from it on Cache la Poudre at the alley between Weber and Wahsatch, which extends as far south as St. Vrain street. About 4000 feet of 4 inch pipe will be laid.

Merchants who publish silly advertisements ponder on this profitably.

Is it better to deal with Clothiers who claim everything and show very little, or to patronize a house that professes only what it can perform?

We have a great stock of things that men and boys wear. Our Clothing is carefully selected and well made. Choose your apparel HERE, because we can fit you, please you—and after you once learn the merits of our goods we believe you will continue to use them.
